FINANCIAL MARKET

Slight Stock Reaction Follows Early Advance-Copper Report.

Continuing its advance of Thursday. the stock market in the early trading yesterday was strong and active, several issues rising to new high levels for the year. The market became more quiet in the afternoon, and toward the close a partial reaction occurred, on profit taking and a moderate amount of fresh short selling, which brought final prices to figures in some cases well under the best of the day, although there were small net gains in most of the issues. With the slackening of the upward movement, however, no real selling pressure developed, and the tone throughout the session was firm, with the market steady at the close. In London the feeling of cheerfulness persisted. the market there continuing to reflect the general impression that the coal strike would soon be adjusted, and prices held steady, with advances in some departments. The course of pricez at this centre gave further support to the position of those who are inclined to believe that the stock market has at last begun to discount the improvement in general business and industrial conditions to which various authorities in various parts of the country have recently been bearing witness, the possibility of a "runaway market," however, being conceded by no one, in view of the uncertainties of the political outlook in this Presidential year and the still present danger of a great strike in the anthracite coal regions. The current reviews of the business position published yesterday by the mercantile agencies are in line with the opinions of many business men in noting a healthy but conservative expansion in business, despite the several handicaps.

The receivership of the Kansas City. Mexico & Orient road caused no ripple of excitement in the local stock market, for it had long been the common impression that the appointment of receivers for the property must come in time. Its most serious consequence is likely to be the creation of suspicion of American railway issues generally in the minds of investors in Europe, where the securities of the Orient road are heavily held. The monthly report of the Copper Producers' Association, while much less favorable than that of February, was regarded in the trade as fairly good, as the comparatively small reduction of 8,840,655 pounds has brought the surplus stocks down to the lowest point recorded in several years, while the demand is still strong and the price firm at the highest figure quoted since the revival in the industry began. Amalgamated Copper, which was one of the strongest 2100 stocks on the list during the day, lost part of its early improvement when the Producers' statement appeared, but retained the greater part of its gain at the close. The government report of grain reserves in farmers' hands on March 1 4000 showed the smallest percentages of 1800 1700 wheat and corn at the date in severa: years, and was about in line with ex- 2300 pectations.

The preliminary estimates based upon 5000 the known movements of money during 1000 the week were for a decrease of about $1.250,000 in the cash holdings of the banks, the loss of $4,000,000 in gold sent | 1200 to Parls and the loss on Sub-Treasury 100 operations offsetting by this comparatively small amount the gain from the statement is looked for to-day. There for nearby maturities, and with the quickening of business and the prospecborrowers for accommodation in this market a general rise in rates for money

CONDITION OF TRADE.

"Dun's Review" says:

An increased movement of trade reflects of greater significance, the admirable conditions prevailing in the winter wheat sections produce a more buoyant feeling in Western trade circles, and the whole business situation is benefited thereby. This is all the better, because of unsettling influences prevailing in many parts of the world: In Mexico and China, in England, where a menacing coal strike produces temporary trade paralysis, and to a much less degree in the United States, where an important election is impending. These conditions tend to unsettle business confidence, so that it is all the more significant that a large trade movement is in progress in this country, with plain signs of expansion, even though without any marked speculative discounting of the future. In other words, there is a moderate forward movement that seems healthy and conservative in spite of every adverse influence. In iron and steel there is a wider demand, with an increased output of pig iron and firmer prices in finished products. There is a continuance of the recent expansion in the drygoods markets, and in nearly every line in both cottons and woollens there is a better movement, with the labor troubles less a factor. Leather continues dull, but the trade is more hopeful. Hides are very strong. Copper continues to advance. At the leading cities a stimulative influence is the breaking up of winter. This, especially, is expected to make the building trades more active. Lumber has made some gains. Hardware is moving well. Chemicals are fairly active. Bank clearings this week gained 20 per cent over 1910 and 7.6 per cent over 1910, and railroad gross earnings in February increased 7.2 per cent. The export trade maintains its favorable aspect during the latest week exports from New York were $17.225.50, a slight falling off from 1911, but a heavy gain over 1919 and these were $2.346.835 better than the imports. The keynote of the whole situation, which is sounded by the week's reports, is a plain desire to move

"Bradstreet's" says:

Trade moves along at a steady pace, though there is still enough lagging, combined with a few setbacks, to prevent desirable uniformity. However, most points report that house trade is relatively better, that jobbers are doing more and that stable articles are in demand at more favorable prices. On the other hand, either cold weather, rains or snows throughout most of the country have millitated against early spring sales at retail, though in sections where low temperatures have prevailed this latter branch of distribution has been enabled to make further inroads on stocks of winter goods. The poor condition of country roads has deterred travelling salesmen from getting about with facility, but, withal, results reflect relative improvement, mail orders being features. Even at the South, where wholesale trade has been quiet for a long spell, there is a tendency to buy more freely, but at the same time retail trade in this section remains dull to very dull, owing to continuously heavy rains. Most activity is noted in drygoods, millinery, groceries, coal, hardware, drugs, paints, olls, builderis' materials in general, and in relatively better future orders for clothing, improved demand in most lines being attributable to the steady, normal requirements of the country or to the demands usually incident to the necessities of a new building season.

CONSOLIDATED EXCHANGE

Profit taking was heavy on the Consolidated Exchange and it was supplemented by the short selling of traders who were expecting a reaction. The market, however, exhibited great absorptive power, prices holding up well in the face of the selling. Dealings started with the upward movement again aggressively under way, new high prices being attained by the leading stocks. Commission house sentiment was favorable to further improvement. Some of the things talked about were the good crop outlook forecasted by the heavy snowfalls of the winter, the improving conditions in general business, the betterment in the steel trade and the larger demand for railroad equipment. The monthly report of the Copper Producers' Association, while announcing a smaller decrease in stocks than had been looked for, was construed as reflecting a tendency in the right direction. The trading list for the day was a broad one, embracing fifty-five different stocks. Detailed operations follow: (Furnished by Charles D.
